Mr. Donald C. Latham
Chairman, National Telecommunications and
Information Systems Security Committee
Washington, D.C. 20301

25X1

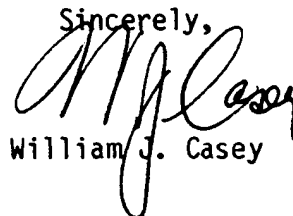

Dear Mr. Latham:

Thank you for your letter of 9 April 1986. I have asked [] to put together, with Intelligence Community support, a counterintelligence capabilities improvements report, called for by the FY 1986 Intelligence Authorization Act. This tasking by the Congress asks the President to submit to the House Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence and the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence a full report on the capabilities, programs, and policies of the United States to protect against and counter the hostile intelligence threat, and our plans for improvements in both security and counterintelligence.

In assigning this task to [] I discussed with him the broad parameters of the issues involved. However, I gave him no guidance with respect to specific proposals either then or in subsequent discussions of his efforts. Although the report has not been put into final draft, I can assure you that we have no intent to propose modifications of NSDD 145.

25X1

I am sure you appreciate that the future success of computer and telecommunications security will depend largely on a judicious blend of many countermeasure disciplines. I anticipate that the new SIG arrangements and your chairmanship of one of the two countermeasures IGs will result in close cooperation between the NTISSC and the rest of the Community in these critical areas. What we are seeking is a formula, acceptable to all, for a national-level policy structure that will be cognizant of and can assure that we have coordinated, integrated countermeasures to the multidisciplinary threat. Yet, the structure will not directly interfere with individual agency, committee, or other element prerogatives.

Sincerely,

William J. Casey

Mr. William J. Casey
 Director, Central Intelligence
 Washington, DC 20505

Dear Mr. Casey:

Bick

It has been brought to my attention that there is an effort currently under way by [] which recommends to the Congress the realignment of the National Telecommunications and Information Systems Security Committee (NTISSC). This realignment would result in the disestablishment of the national structure formed by the President's directive (NSDD 145). I understand the recommendations will require that national issues developed by the NTISSC be submitted to the Senior Interagency Group (Intelligence) through the Interagency Group on Countermeasures. Such recommendations are inimical to the efforts of the NTISSC and seriously undermine the process that assures full participation and cooperation within the Executive Branch and between the Government and the private sector. We have made considerable headway toward meeting the President's objectives. Any action to disestablish or redirect NSDD 145 efforts is contrary to those goals and the President's continuing commitments in this area.

25X1

During the preparation of NSDD 145, there were long discussions and much deliberation given within the Administration on the development of the process, responsibilities, and structure. I do not believe exhuming these topics or changing the national structure established by NSDD 145 will serve any purpose. I request your assistance in reaffirming the commitment to the precepts of the President's directive.

Sincerely,

Donald C. Latham
 Chairman
